James H. Fyke Amateur Golf Championship Tournament History

The Municipal Amateur Championship was founded in 1981 by James H. Fyke. Modeled after the old City Open, it was his vision to create an Amateur Championship that was truly open to all competitors in Nashville and the surrounding areas. During the 21 years that he served as the Tournament Chairman, the Championship continued to gain prominence and is now considered one of the best amateur events in Tennessee. In April 2003, he retired as the Director of Metro Parks after 38 years of service and in 2005 the championship was re-named in his honor, the James H. Fyke Amateur Golf Championship.
